“Grime Scene Investigation: at home with the Microbes”

Guest Speaker: Dr Anthony Hilton (Aston University)

The public are acutely aware of the intimate relationship between microbiology and their daily lives; both in terms of good bacteria in their probiotic yoghurt drinks and bad ones that cause disease and steal the media headlines. Few people, however, consider the microbes living happily in their homes and on their bodies.

In this lecture Dr Hilton discusses the behind the scenes action and the bugs and beasties lurking in our homes.

What is a Café Scientifique Meeting?

Café Scientifique meetings are an opportunity for anyone with an interest in science, engineering and technology to discuss the issues of the day in a relaxed and informal atmosphere. No scientific knowledge is assumed by the speakers, so anyone can participate.
